

LOCAL NEWS.

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 13.

For this section showers; no change in temperature; variable winds.

DEATH OF REV. DR. PHILIP SLAUGHTER.—Rev. Dr. Philip Slaughter died at his home near Mitchell's, in Culpeper, yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, in his 82d year. He was a son of Captain Philip Slaughter, of the Revolutionary army. He entered the University of Virginia in 1825 and was admitted to the bar in 1828. Five years later he entered the Theological Seminary near this city, and was ordained a deacon in 1831 and a priest in 1835. His first church was in Prince William. Afterward he was Rector of Christ Church, Georgetown, Meade Parish and Lewis church, Fauquier, and St. Paul's, Petersburg. He was afterwards agent of the colonization society. Of late years he has been Historiographer of the Diocese of Virginia. Shortly after the late war he was one of the associate editors of the Southern Churchman. Dr. Slaughter was celebrated for his eloquence in the pulpit. He made large contributions to periodical and other literature. Among his publications were "St. George's Parish," "Man and Woman," "Life of Randolph Fairfax," and many other like works. The last public occasion in which he took part was in April last year, when he preached in Christ Church, this city, on the Christian character of George Washington. He was beloved by all the people of Virginia, and tens of thousands will feel that they have lost an honored and true friend in his death.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY?—Here is a story that will interest all who are interested in advertising. It does not pay. Let the skeptic look around him in any city or business center, and note the most successful business men there. Who are they? The careful and judicious advertisers invariably.

Some raise the objection that everything is now sold at a small margin of profit, that they cannot afford to advertise. This is just why they should advertise. Where is the advantage of selecting particularly cheap or offering especially great bargains if the people are not aware of them?

There is no question about the fact that there is an immense amount of money wasted, a patient being away in an needless advertising scheme, that are absolutely worthless, and that fail utterly to bring the investor in them any return whatever for the money expended. All the experienced advertisers avoid them, using only the standard, long tried, reliable mediums—the newspapers, the best and the cheapest.

As it is known that the most successful business men are the great advertisers, so it is a fact that all successful advertisers are firm believers in the newspaper. Advertisers not only in its effectiveness, but in its cheapness. —Lyndhurst Advertiser.

WILL SETTLE.—A. W. W. N. C. paper states that W. A. Stiles, of Kansas City, Mo., has returned to Madison, N. C., and announces his readiness to meet all obligations. Stiles about the 20th of May drew $1,000 from Brown, Reedy and Newby, of this city, from whom he had sub-let work on the Raleigh and Southern Railway, to pay off his employees. He failed to pay it, and left the State, leaving behind debts amounting to $5,000 in addition to the above amount. His stock and tools were advertised to be sold to satisfy creditors, when he unexpectedly returned as above stated.

POLICE REPORT.—Last night was clear and mild with four prisoners and no lodgers at the station house.

The Mayor this morning disposed of the following cases:

Wm. Wilkerson, Wm. Smoot and Jas. Lewis, all colored, arrested by officer Taylor for disorderly conduct, were fined $1 each.

John Henry, colored, arrested by officer Taylor charged with stealing beer from the brewery, was sent to jail for 30 days.

PERSONAL.—Rev. W. M. James, of Baltimore, passed through this city last night on his way to Danville, where he had been called to the bedside of his wife who it is feared is dying.

Mr. W. B. Corne, of this city, analytical chemist and assayer, has located in Knoxville, Tenn., where his child is very sick.

MASONIC.—Alexandria-Washington Lodge No. 22 A. F. and A. M., last night re-elected the following officers for the ensuing year: K. Kemper, W. M.; Leonard Marver, S. W.; J. R. Chapman, J. W., and J. Bury, S. E. The secretary, Mr. G. W. Fisher, S. Dugan, was elected in place of Mr. J. A. Field, who has held the position for 25 years, but whose health is now too feeble for him to attend to the duties of the office.

THE RAVAGES OF TIME.—A bill for a Whig of Feb. 25, 1848 contained a clause providing that the number of citizens, convention which was signed by George, viz. of which number but 10 are now alive, C. C. Berry, W. N. Brown, W. N. Be. T. D. Kendall, J. T. Creighton, Jacob R. Jary, Bennett Wheat, G. W. D. Ramsay, Jas. H. McVeigh and C. C. Bradley.

A BIG SCHEME.—It is believed in New York that the purchase of the Baltimore and Ohio stock from the city of Baltimore by a syndicate in which the Richmond Terminal people are largely interested, will result in a grand trans-continental system.

The C. & O. Canal.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal was held yesterday. None of the stockholders were present except the board of public works, representing a majority of the stock held by the State. President Stephen Gambrill was re-elected and the old board of directors, as follows: James G. Borret, Robert A. Dobbin, Patrick Hamilton, Daniel Annan and Joe. D. Abalt. For the vacancy caused by the death of Col. James A. McClure James B. Henderson was elected. President Gambrill submitted the 62d and last annual report of the president and directors. The greater part of it is a recital of the ups and downs of the canal, as published in the reports of the receivers and divers other forms. In conclusion the report says:

"On Thursday, 30th January, we surrendered the office in Georgetown, with all the effects therein contained, to the District receivers, and on Friday, 7th of March, upon application of the Maryland receivers, the office at Annapolis, together with books, papers, etc., was surrendered to them—so that now, under the decrees of the Supreme Court for the District of Columbia and of the Circuit Court for Washington county, the receivers appointed by the respective courts have in their possession all the premises, property, books, maps, records, etc., of the canal company."

An additional report was submitted, giving a detailed statement of the condition of the canal, an estimate of the cost of repairing and probable earnings if repaired, and of the ordinary and extraordinary expenses of the canal for the past twenty-three years. This report says:

"The careful estimates that we have made show that to put the canal in fair navigable condition, with a depth of six feet of water, will cost, including the $20,000 allowed to Georgetown millers for the restoration of that level, the sum of $307,953.

The estimate made by the receivers was $200,000. There is a balance in the treasury of $73,953.

The Cadets in Camp.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]

TOLCHESTER BRANCH, Md., June 11, 1890.

The cadet corps of St. John's Academy reached Baltimore at 11:30 this morning and marched directly to Pier 16, Light street wharf. Soon after the steamer Louise arrived from Tolchester and the cadets having placed their arms, knapsacks, &c., on board, such as desired it were allowed to visit friends or view the city while those who did not choose to do so had camp lunch, bread and ham, on board. At 2:30 the steamer left for her berth and steamed down the Patuxent and across the bay. The trip was a delightful one; there was a brisk breeze from ahead and the waves danced around the boat, with it, however, rendering her unsteady, so that all enjoyed it. A German steamer coming in and a British steamer going out were passed; and Fort McHenry, where the star spangled banner still waved, and Fort Carroll, with its outer side unfinished and never to be finished; Locust Point, with its elevators; Steelton, with its smoking chimneys; the many lighthouses; and, above all, the curious phenomenon of a straight rainbow, if it may be allowed the expression, apparently twenty feet under water, but doubtless produced by the spray flying from the bows, all interested the boys greatly, and they were at the wharf almost before they knew it. The boat was full of people, and after they all got off the corps marched up to the camp, which had been beautifully put up by the advance party on fine grounds. Chests were unpacked, tables set up, the camp flag was hoisted to the sound of the bugle, a guard was posted, and camp life began in earnest, with every prospect of a week of enjoyment greater than the boys have ever yet seen.

BETTING ON THE TEN COMMANDMENTS.—Congressmen Grimes and Candler are both Georgians and both theologians. Yesterday afternoon they were discussing the weather and future life, when Mr. Candler took occasion to regret that most men were not as well posted on the catechism as they ought to be. "Why, Grimes," said Candler, "I'll bet you ten dollars you can't pick me a man that can say the Ten Commandments." "I'll have to take that," replied Grimes, "and a bottle of wine goes to the man as a reward of merit."

Mr. Grimes looked around, and the first man he saw was Breckinridge, of Kentucky, and Wilson, of West Virginia. He called them over and explained the bet.

"Well," said Breckinridge, after a moment's deep thought, "of course, I know them like a book; but, as I never drink a drop, of course, I'm not in the bet. You just say them, Wilson, and I take the bottle of wine. I'll be referee."

Mr. Wilson started off very nicely: "Thou shalt love no other gods but me," then "I believe in God," when Mr. Breckinridge stopped him and insisted that that was the beginning of the third, not the second commandment. There was some discussion; Mr. Grimes offered about a Bible, but Mr. Wilson admitted that he might as well stop, because he didn't know the rest of them anyhow.

Mr. Grimes handed ten good dollars over to Mr. Candler, and looked disgusted. "I'll give you a chance to win your money back," said Mr. Candler. "I'll bet you $20 there is not a man in the House, except Speaker Reed, that can say them." Mr. Grimes had become weary. He had seen two men, generally recognized as the best educated and most widely read men in the House, go to grass ingloriously on the Ten Commandments, and he knew when he had enough.
